FOREWORD

The gathering up of the innumerable bits and pieces of printed material around us has been undertaken for as long as there has been material to collect. Now known as ephemera, these scraps of printed matter were printed for the purpose of one time or short-term use. They are the relics of our daily lives in the past. As opposed to documents, photographs, and records - which were meant to be kept - ephemera were generally intended to be throwaways. The tiny fraction of ephemera which exists today, therefore, are minor miracles of survival.

In the last quarter of the nineteenth century, particularly in the United States and the British Empire, collecting - or, more accurately, accumulating - was all the rage. The gathering up of printed materials at that time coincided with the sudden availability of inexpensive and attractive color printing, made possible by new technologies and enhanced systems for their distribution. This activity became codified, especially in America, with the advent of albums and [the more aptly named] scrapbooks.

The late nineteenth century accumulations of printed materials were based entirely on two principles: gathering one of everything (the way that empty spaces in stamp albums are filled) and visual appeal (design, color, and typography). In many instances, items were printed to be collected. Trade cards and premiums are prime examples of this. Still, anything and everything that appealed to the eye, and was inexpensive or (usually) free, was fair game. No thought was given to the cultural significance of the objects that were kept. This was a time for omnivores, not epicures.

By the beginning of the twentieth century, the collecting fad had passed and only a few individuals were actively committed to saving printed throwaways. Then, as the century wore on, more and more collectors again began seeking out materials in ever-narrower fields of interest. By the time that The Ephemera Society of America was formed in 1980, the range of specific interests was beyond count. At about this time institutions began reassessing their own collections, viewing them as valued cultural and historical resources rather than as accumulations of “stuff.”

Beginning in the 1920's, and for decades after, Dr. Edward Deming Andrews and his wife, Faith Andrews, collected all that they could from the rapidly vanishing Shaker world. Their interests covered nearly every aspect of Shaker life and in their passion to gather as much as possible of the material culture that remained, they saved many thousands of pieces of ephemera which almost certainly would have been lost. The Andrewses contributed much of the material which forms the basis of the present collection of ephemera at the Hancock Shaker Village Library; much more was supplemented by co-founder of the museum, Mrs. Amy Bess Miller.
What is the value to us of these thousands of bits and scraps of paper - some of them labels less than 3/4" wide, some of the broadsides nearly 2' high - almost all of them printed more than a hundred years ago? The answer is that these (and the products themselves) are the tangible remains of an economic system which supported the Shaker communities and their unique way of life for more than two hundred years. In fact, the ephemera being produced at the sole remaining community at Sabbathday Lake, Maine, is a present-day extension of this process. In order for us to fully understand the economic life of the Shakers, we must refer to their journals, ledgers, record books, correspondence, and ephemera.

Institutional collections bear the indelible imprints of who their major donors and patrons were. The Hancock Shaker Village Library collection is richest in materials from New Lebanon (Mount Lebanon), NY. This is due to the enormous scope of their industries, the survival of this community until 1947, and the collecting activities of the Andrewses and Amy Bess Miller. One example from this lode is the large group of labeled medicinal bottles which was acquired directly from the Shakers. They serve as a “gold standard” for what is genuine in an area that is unfortunately rife with counterfeits. There are choice bits of ephemera from other communities as well. There is a garden seed envelope and several herb labels from Watervliet, NY, which may well be unique survivors of once large enterprises. There are also a unique wall cabinet from Mount Lebanon, NY, with medicinal herb labels attached to its slots and a hanging case of medicinal herb labels from Canterbury, NH, with many labels still in their assigned slots.

This present guide provides the library user with precisely the tools needed to identify and locate the substantial array of ephemera found in the Hancock Shaker Village Library. As a “bonus,” there are many annotations to enrich and enliven this user’s research. How did this all manage to come about? To paraphrase from the sports world, “we have Magda Gabor-Hotchkiss and nobody else does.”

PREPARER'S NOTE: PRINTED SHAKER EPHEMERA

The Shakers, like so many other communal religious groups, depended on the production and distribution of a wide variety of goods to insure as much self-sufficiency as possible. The Shakers sold their products both between their Families and Societies (within which the Families were organized) as well as to outsiders, those whom they called "the World." Unlike most other groups, however, they kept meticulous records and incorporated (even, at times, developed) novel means of marketing their goods. Fortunately for us, enough evidence of their community industries has survived (in some cases preserved by the Shakers themselves) that we can begin to reconstruct the scope of their varied endeavors.

The printed materials which were produced to support these industries, and which were intended for one-time or short-term use, are now known as ephemera (plural of ephemeron), as defined by The American Heritage Dictionary. Printed materials that were concerned with such community matters as rules of behavior (for Believers, children in the community, or visitors), statements to the public about their religious views and organizational matters, invitations, announcements, events within the community, and such, are included in Volume III of this series. Also found there are advertisements placed by the Shakers in worldly newspapers, as well as community industry catalogs longer than one page (and thus considered to be imprints or pamphlets).

The listings in Volume IV reflect the interests of several prominent collectors, Dr. Edward Deming Andrews and Mrs. Faith Andrews, and Amy Bess Miller among them. These include broadsides (single- and double-sided), small business and large display cards, labels from the garden, food, herb & medicinal, and household goods businesses, seed envelopes (or "papers"), seed lists, shipping tags and labels, stationery (including billheads, invoices, receipts, letterheads, and envelopes), folding paper boxes and the like. All of these items were printed BY, or FOR the Shakers. Interestingly, the laborious and ingenious Brother Isaac Newton Youngs, of Mount Lebanon, NY, not only printed labels but cut a special type for the purpose. Ephemera printed by non-Shakers, for the Believers, are also included.

In the course of their use in daily life, the Shakers attached many labels to bottles, boxes, cabinets, and other objects, where some of them remain, and are recorded as such in this guide.

Although the materials selected for this volume concern eight categories recognized by the Library of Congress as relating to the Shaker industries, for simplicity's sake they were divided into four main groups in this guide: garden products (garden seeds, fresh vegetables and fruit, produced in their gardens and orchards); food products (foods processed in their kitchens); herb and medicinal products (produced in their laboratories and shops), and household products (produced in their shops). These categories are sometimes overlapping and the reader may look for some items in one category, only to find them in another. We hope that the index in the back of this volume will help to guide the user in this respect. Also, although every effort was made not to repeat listing certain items twice (in Volume III and IV), this could not be entirely avoided (thus some Shaker seed envelopes, certain broadsides, and stationery have been listed in both volumes).

The following sources dealing with Shaker ephemera were consulted and are enthusiastically recommended for the interested reader and collector: the seminal exhibition catalog A Century of Shaker Ephemera: Marketing Community Industries, 1830 - 1930, by Dr. M. Stephen Miller, 1988, dealing with the history of ephemera, printing processes and styles; the classic Shaker Medicinal Herbs: A Compendium of History, Lore, and Uses by Amy Bess Miller and Deborah E. Burns, editor, 1998, was my guide for Shaker communities, plant materials, and names (Latin and common). Additional information about specific industries and Shaker individuals was found in The Earth Shall Blossom: Shaker Herbs and Gardening, by Galen Beale and Mary Rose Boswell, 1991.

This guide lists Shaker Societies as authors, in alphabetical order, when they are known. When the issuing Society is unidentified, but there are reasons to associate the item(s) with a particular Society, it they are put at the end under that community, and the entry starts with the title of the printed work in the appropriate alphabetical order (according to the first word in the title, disregarding any preceding article). Within each Society the four main categories of Shaker industries and the listing of formats were adhered to as closely as possible, even though some inherent overlap between the garden-, food-, and herb categories was unavoidable.

An item followed by "R" and a number in brackets indicates that it is described in the authoritative annotated bibliography by Mary L. Richmond, Shaker Literature: A Bibliography. Hancock, MA: Hancock Shaker Village (former Shaker Community), 1977. An item followed by [R # and !] means that she includes important information about it in her entry. If the item in the Library Collection is NOT described in Richmond's work, it is labeled NIR [not in Richmond]. As a matter of policy she did not generally include Shaker labels, seed envelopes, and the like. Information given in Richmond (which can be used by the researcher on the premises) is not repeated in this selectively annotated list, unless deemed essential for better understanding. Dimensions, when given, are in inches or fractions thereof, height preceding width.

Additional brief information provided by the present annotator, is included [in brackets]. Further information from the same can be found under "MGH/number" in "Who's Who in The Shaker Image: Biographical Data on... the Shakers," in The Shaker Image, 1994, pp. 223-294, cited above.

This is the fourth volume in an ongoing series of bibliographic guides to the collections of the Amy Bess and Lawrence K. Miller Library at Hancock Shaker Village.

Presently the guide is organized as follows:

Volume I
- Original bound manuscripts: pp. 1 - 20
- Copied bound manuscripts: pp. 21 - 33

Volume II
- Original unbound manuscripts: pp. 1 - 39
- Copied unbound manuscripts: pp. 40 - 66

Volume III
- Printed and bound materials: books, books, pamphlets, catalogs, periodicals pp. 1 - 62

Volume IV
- Shaker Community Industries: pp. 1 - 86
- Printed Shaker Ephemera

Other volumes are available for purchase upon request at Hancock Shaker Village.
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I would like to thank Lawrence J. Yerdon, President and CEO of Hancock Shaker Village (HSV), for his support of this ongoing project. It is with pleasure that I express my gratitude to Christian Goodwillie, Curator of Collections, for his critical reading of the Preparer’s Note, final selection/reproduction of the illustrations, and constructive suggestions concerning captions. I am also grateful to Brother Arnold Hadd for the invaluable information concerning the Shaker Societies in general, and Sabbathday Lake in particular; to Dr. M. Stephen Miller, for his helpful participation in surveying the collections, consultations on describing and presenting ephemera, for critical reading of the entire manuscript, and, finally, for the heroic copy-editing of this volume, (as he did with the previous three); to Stephen J. Paterwic, for his always unique and rich-in-context information pertaining to Shakers from several Societies – and to all of the above for their friendship. Thanks are also due to Jenny Lockerby, HSV 2003 Intern, graduate of Moorestown, NJ, Friends’ School, for her effective and most pleasant help in illustration design.

Last, but not least, I am very grateful to my dear husband, Prof. Rollin D. Hotchkiss, for his incisive suggestions on formatting the layout, and many other problems in this volume, and more importantly, for always lending a sympathetic ear, unfailing support, understanding, and wisdom.
PLEASE NOTE: WRITTEN PERMISSION OF HANCOCK SHAKER VILLAGE MUST BE OBTAINED FOR REPRODUCTION OF THESE PRINTED MATERIALS.

Color of dot applied to Library catalog cards indicates the size of the item (e.g. smaller business cards or larger broadsides) and thus its location. It is the responsibility of the researcher to provide this information to the Librarian, so the item can be found.

[Br. Thomas J. Corbett, 1780-1857, Canterbury's first physician, joined the Enfield, NH, Shakers in 1790, and the Canterbury Shakers in 1794; developed in 1809- and kept improving- a "rocking truss" to alleviate hernias; built a static electricity machine in 1810. In 1813 the New Hampshire Ministry appointed him "to qualify himself for a physician in this Society." He did so through perusing the Shakers' library, apprenticeship to Dr. William Tenney of Loudon, and learning from Jesse Wright, a Canterbury physician (who joined the Shakers). Interested in medicinal herbs at a young age, he "never engaged largely in the practice of medicine" but instead started and supervised the medicinal herb garden, developed and supervised the production of several medicinal preparations (compound syrups of Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry, Vegetable Family Pills and Dyspepsia Cure), and pressed herb-bricks as well. He built up such an impressive market that he was assigned an assistant. He was also the designer of the Canterbury fire engine in 1820.]

Label-Collection of Canterbury Shakers: Label-Case

All the labels in and attached to this label-case are printed on yellow paper, of 1 3/4" x 2" size, save a few, which will be indicated when called for. All are identified as Shaker Village, N.H. This information will not be repeated below. The label-case (27 3/4" high x 48 1/4" wide x 2 1/4" deep, Andrews collections), is from Canterbury, N. H., ca. 1840, and consists of two separate hinged cases. Interiors of the cases are divided. (Cur. Acc. # 62-474) The list below strictly follows the spelling and sequence in which they were arranged by the Shakers themselves.

The exact spelling, punctuation, and sequence employed by the Shakers is followed.

.5 lb Lettuce wild Ext. Lactuca Elongata T. Corbett. Light pink paper, 1 1/2" x 3 1/2"

[Br. Thomas J. Corbett, 1780-1857, Canterbury's first physician. In 1813 the New Hampshire Ministry appointed him "to qualify himself for a physician in this Society." He did so through perusing the Shakers' library, apprenticeship to Dr. William Tenney of Loudon, and learning from Jesse Wright, a Canterbury physician (who joined the Shakers). Interested in medicinal herbs at a young age, he "never engaged largely in the practice of medicine" but instead started and supervised the medicinal herb garden, developed and supervised the production of several medicinal preparations (compound syrups of Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry, Vegetable Family Pills, and Dyspepsia Cure), and pressed herb-bricks as well, while building up an impressive market. [Br. Elijah Myrick, Jr., 1824-1890, of Church F., Harvard, MA, one of twelve children, joined in 1830, served as elder for 7 years, as trustee for 40, selling Shaker produce in New England. A practical man and an innovator, his chimney cap was produced by a Nashua, NH, firm in 1869. He wrote frequent theological articles for THE SHAKER MANIFESTO, and non-Shaker publications, MGH/250.]

MOUNT LEBANON, NEW YORK

New Lebanon (Mount Lebanon from 1861), New York, organized in 1787, was the seat of the Central Ministry, and comprised at one point 8 families; it closed in 1947. “Mount Lebanon” designation will be used throughout this listing (even for the times when New Lebanon was used, unless it appears within the text of the ephemera themselves), to distinguish it from the present day town of New Lebanon. The eight Families (F.), in the chronological order of their organization: Church F. (First and Second Order, the latter also being called for a short time the Center F.), Second F., North F., Upper & Lower Canaan, East F., South F. The Second, East, and South Families comprised “the Order of Families,” and the North, Upper, and Lower Canaan Families comprised the Novitiate or Gathering Order.

Labels attached to a Shaker Wall Cupboard from Mount Lebanon, N. Y.

The following labels are attached to a wall cupboard from Mount Lebanon, from ca. the 1830s (Andrews Collection; cur. acc. # 62-673) The cupboard (62 ½" high x 44" wide x 5 1/2") consists of three sections, each with 72 partitions: 4 horizontal x 18 vertical ones.

The labels themselves do not identify the location where they were produced; most of them were printed on yellow paper, some however, were printed on green or blue paper. Some labels have been lost, as the supporting glue layer has dried out, and some are barely or not legible. Only those at least partially discernible are listed (and numbered, according to the slot they are pasted on). The exact spelling and sequence is followed.

[The text reflects the passage of the Pure Food and Drug Acts of 1906 and 1915, obliging them to reveal the alcohol content and to add the term “Poison,” M. S. Miller, 1988.]

[Dr. Wesley C. Norwood, of Cokesbury, South Carolina, turned over his business to the Shakers; from almost failing in 1859, it grew steadily, and in the 1870s more than fourteen thousand bottles were sold to treat pulmonary diseases and cardiac disorders, M. S. Miller, 1988; so successful was its production and sales, that the Shakers published a booklet in 11 editions between 1850s and 1904, extolling its curative virtues, and in 1934 printed the formula for the tincture, A. B. Miller, 1985, 1998]

CHAIR INDUSTRY

The earliest known broadside price list, under Jesse Lewis (born 1797, left in 1867, died in Maryland in 1874), and Dewitt Clinton Brainard (1828-1897), is dated 185-, and a United States Patent Office's Letters patent is made out March 2, 1852, indicating that the [internal] chair production at that date was already well on its way. Under the leadership of Elder Robert M. Wagan, 1833-1883, it was organized into a commercial chair industry around 1870. The production originally took place at the Second Family, but after the separation of the South Family from the former in 1863, the South F. became the major chair producer, see: Muller & Rieman, 1984. The additional recurring names of the Shakers in charge of R. M. Wagan Co., Shaker Chairs Factory, are: Eldress Sarah Collins, 1855-1947, Sr. Lillian Barlow, 1876-1942, and Br. William H. Perkins, 1861-1934.

N. B.: Although labels and wrappers printed at Watervliet bear the D. M. initials (standing for Br. David Meacham , Sr., 1744-1826, of Mount Lebanon, NY, presumably long after his death), a likely printer could have been Br. David Austin Buckingham, 1803-1885, of Church F., Watervliet, NY, who was of a large family joining the Shakers in 1818. An elder, from 1842 until his death, he kept a daily journal. He was a schoolteacher for the boys in 1830s, historian, printer of seed labels and packages, horticulturist, etc. [MGH/228]

BROOM INDUSTRY

Labels

Fancy Velvet Shaker Broom, Manufactured by T. W. Winne, Niskayuna, N. Y. No. 6. Gilded letters and border on navy blue background, 2 1/8" x 2 5/16".

[Niskayuna was the original name of the first Shaker settlement in United States; it was renamed Watervliet later]

[T. W. Winne: “He was a merchant in Niskayuna, ran a seed and grain store. He bought broom corn from the Shakers (who grew it on an island in the Mohawk River). Information kindly provided by Dr. M. Stephen Miller. This is another example of mutually satisfactory business arrangements between the Shakers and the “world’s people.”]

CARRIAGE TRADE

Labels

Silver pens, Manufactured by the Society of Shakers, Watervliet, Albany County. Two identical labels, printed side by side on ivory color paper, 5/8" x 4 3/8". The pens were for sale to the “carriage trade.”

[Lomas, George A[llbert]. Early Manufacture of Metal Pens. In: AMERICAN SOCIALIST, Nov. 21, 1878, p. 373. [Presumes the first silver pens in USA were made by Shakers] Call # 9751 O58, ID # 5251, yellow dot, photocopy: ID # 5251, green dot.

SHAKER'S
PURE
PREPARED FROM Positively Pure and Best Double-Refined Fresh
CONCENTRATED LEMON JUICE,
Doubly-Refined and Positively Pure Lemon Oil,
AND THE BEST Refined WHITE SUGAR.

One tablespoonful of the Syrup in a Tumbler of Water, furnishes a Superior Lemonade at one-twelfth the cost of the Lemonade commonly made at Hotels.

SHOULD BE HAD BY ALL HOTELS, REFRESHMENT SALOONS AND PRIVATE FAMILIES

Mixed with five or six times its weight of Water, this Syrup of Lemon forms a cooling and grateful beverage for all classes, especially in the warm season of the year. It is excellent for the sick and feverish, and well suited to the taste of the luxurious.

UNLIKE OTHER LEMON SYRUPS
often put into the market, this is free from an excess of acidity formed by other acids than the Lemon juice. This article being PURE LEMON JUICE, cannot retain its desirable salubrity for the month after drinking.

THIS ARTICLE WILL KEEP IN ANY CLIMATE AND FOR A TERM OF YEARS.
